The fruit of deceit by Grace Tan

15 Jan 2024 - 15 Mar 2026
Level 2, Block 39, Tanjong Pagar
Distripark, Corridor, Staircase and Service Balcony facing port

At Block 39 of Tanjong Pagar Distripark, delicate floral garlands, pollination trails and nutmeg fruits embellish an exterior staircase and passageway. Presented as a response to the history of Tanjong Pagar and its evolving identity, the notion of nature as a commodity is foregrounded here against the physical site of the old Keppel Harbour and present-day Tanjong Pagar Distripark—logistical nodes from different eras that facilitate the circulation of materials, goods, ideas, people and capital. Drawing from the artist's explorations for an earlier commission Sea of flags, The fruit of deceit extends the colour compendium of Tanjong Pagar through the visuals of the nutmeg, alluding to its slighted history in Singapore's development.

Singapore Art Museum Learning Gallery

20 Jul 2024 onwards
Gallery 2, SAM at Tanjong Pagar Distripark

Childhood is a universal milestone of human experience. It is an age of passionate curiosities, imaginative play, spontaneity, and an uninhibited relationship with the world allowing children to view issues in a fundamentally different manner from adults.

The new Learning Gallery at Singapore Art Museum seeks to enhance learning of contemporary art through the lens of a child and childhood, recognising the creative potential inherent in a child's approach to and experience of both art and life.

In the lead up to its opening in July, SAM is presenting ChildISH at the regional libraries, an interactive exhibition that features evocative poems by five local poets responding to the artworks that will be featured in the Learning Gallery. Paired with captivating illustrations by artist Tan Zixi and pupils from Ang Mo Kio Primary School, ChildISH reminds us of the profound impact that childhood has on our lives. The exhibition kicks off at Punggol, before travelling to Woodlands, Jurong and Tampines till December 2024.

Rhapsody in Yellow – A Lecture Performance with Two Pianos by Ming Wong (Singapore/Germany)

16 - 17 Aug 2024
Singtel Waterfront Theatre,
Esplanade – Theatres on the Bay

At a time of rising tensions between the United States and China, artist Ming Wong presents a musical lecture performance that traces the journey of Sino-American "ping-pong" diplomacy, starting with President Richard Nixon's historic state visit to communist China and his meeting with Chairman Mao Zedong 50 years ago. Evoking an international piano competition and a table tennis match, two classical pianists collaborate on and improvise a performative unification of the sonic regimes of the US and China.

In a ping-pong double concerto accompanied by archival moving images and spoken word, they explore the role of European classical music, modernism and myth-making in the rise of these two nations in the 20th century. From table tennis and television to tanks and trade wars, Rhapsody in Yellow – A Lecture Performance with Two Pianos charts the changing balance of power between the two nations, in a duet of discord and harmony, chaos and serendipity, humour and pathos.

Jointly presented by Esplanade – Theatres on the Bay and Singapore Art Museum, as part of The Studios 2024.

Lost & Found: Embodied Archive

25 Oct - 24 Nov 2024
Gallery 3, SAM at Tanjong Pagar Distripark

Lost & Found: Embodied Archive is the second pillar of Lost & Found, a multi-phased curatorial project exploring the significance of archival documentation and records through artistic practices. By studying how artists collect what seems uncollectable, assemble that which resists assembly, and present that which defies visibility, Lost & Found engages with questions concerning the authoritative voice of archives and history.

With an emphasis on the process-driven and durational aspects of the participating artists, Lost & Found: Embodied Archive is a month-long unfolding that will examine the intersections between the body and memory. By inhabiting the gallery space, artists will be activating their work and engaging with audiences throughout the exhibition period.

Yee I-Lann: Mansau-Ansau

6 Dec 2024 - 23 Mar 2025
Gallery 1, SAM at Tanjong Pagar Distripark

KUNSTMUSEUM
THUN

Mansau-Ansau in Dusun – the language of the Dusun and Kadazan of Sabah – means to journey without a specific destination or to walk and walk without knowing where one is headed. It is also the name given to a weave created by the Sabahan artist, Yee I-Lann, and her collaborators, weavers Julitah Kulinting, Lili Naming and Shahrizan Bin Juin. It is a pattern with no pattern. A pattern that follows its own rhythm.

The exhibition takes us on a journey through two decades of Yee's practice, examining the nature of politics, the administration of power and body, navigating domains of knowledge old and new, as well as the fluidity and possibilities across boundaries. Here the horizon line teases, mats become bridges and pathways of knowledge, and the mountain is as much a compass as it is a place for remembering. Following the presentation at SAM, the exhibition travels to Kunstmuseum Thun (Switzerland).

Pratchaya Phinthong: Free Fall

6 Dec 2024 - 23 Mar 2025
Gallery 1, SAM at Tanjong Pagar Distripark

Free Fall, the first solo exhibition of Bangkok-based artist Pratchaya Phinthong in Singapore considers ideas of self-determination and objects as avatars of chance. The works of Pratchaya Phinthong marks a critical strand of conceptual practices in Thai contemporary art. Much of the artist's conceptually driven practice is premised on collaborative processes, modes of exchange and the transference of artistic agency that redefine the value and significance of art.

Translating research, scientific discoveries, economic theories, and even rumours into experiential forms and gestures, the exhibition presents major explorations underpinning Phinthong's two decades of practice that reflects his modes of conceptual thinking and research.

Exhibitions Abroad

Seeing Forest
Singapore Pavilion
at the 60th International Art Exhibition of La Biennale di Venezia

20 Apr - 24 Nov 2024
Arsenale's Sale d'Armi, Venice

The observation of the ultimately unknowable in the natural world is a hallmark of artist Robert Zhao Renhui's praxis. Since 1998, under the auspices of his own semi-fictional Institute of Critical Zoologists, Zhao's many and varied projects have served as lenses that highlight the resilience of nature and the various interactions that occur when such resilience overlaps with human life and society.

Notably, over the last seven years, he has been focusing on secondary forests in Singapore — forests regrown from deforested land due to human intervention such as development and plantation — and the new ecosystems that have developed within it. For the Singapore Pavilion, decades of Zhao's accumulated observations are condensed and organised into an intensive installation that complements the scale and condition of the Singapore Pavilion in Arsenale.

Through this exhibition, we see how the island of Singapore has evolved to arrive at the present day, revealing some of the ways in which human urban design can shape the natural world itself, resulting in an ecosystem of migrant species that echoes the trajectories and makeup of the city's human population. At the same time, Seeing Forest also highlights phenomena that are universally relatable to those living in any urban environment.
